

DANZIG TENSION MOUNTS; POLISH OFFICIAL TAKEN

British Government Is Ready To Meet Force With Force

By the Associated Press
The British government answered opposition accusations of new "appeasement" inclinations yesterday with a firm declaration that it was prepared to meet force with force.
Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax made Britain's stand clear as tension mounted in Danzig, Europe's current danger spot, over another incident involving Germans and Poles in the free city.
His statement was prompted by a barrage of criticism levelled at his speech of last Thursday expressing Britain's willingness to negotiate German claims for "living space."
Before he spoke a foreign office expert on Central European affairs, William Strang, left by plane for Moscow bearing a new formula which Britain hoped would produce the long-delayed British-French-Russian mutual assistance pact.
The situation in Danzig, meanwhile, took a serious turn when Nazis arrested a Polish customs inspector on a charge of spying and attempting to kidnap two storm troopers. One Nazi publication said he had confessed to the spying charge.
Customs Inspection
Authorities in the Nazi-dominated free city suggested the Danzig government might use the incident to attempt arbitrarily to reduce the number of Polish customs inspectors. Polish circles in Warsaw reiterated that any such move or any effort to hamper the work of Polish inspectors would meet with effective counter-measures.
Foreign office quarters in Berlin accused Poland of "daring to make the situation in the free city worse because the city has British and French backing."
German officials rounded up several dozen persons in the town of Kladno, Bohemia-Moravia, in their investigation into the slaying of a Nazi policeman last Thursday. The authorities indicated they were giving particular attention to the possibility of a Czech conspiracy with wide ramifications.
German spokesmen reported that the government would propose expropriation of Jewish-owned lands to provide an initial 500,000 acres for landless peasants, and expropriation of 10 per cent of all Aryan-owned estates above 700 acres. The move was regarded as a step to steal the thunder of Hungarian Nazis.

Pilot and Woman Passenger Killed

Rockford, Ill., June 12.—(P)—The pilot of a Milwaukee airplane and a woman passenger were killed today when the craft caught fire in the air and crashed on the golf course of the Rockford Country Club.
The dead were Audrie King, 25, a Rockford stenographer, and Ray Zuelke, about 25 years old, of 3242 Cambridge street, Milwaukee.
The plane was owned by the Milwaukee Parts Corporation.
Authorities said Zuelke arrived at MacInnes airport, a private landing field near Rockford, about 3:30 p. m. with the girl as his guest he then flew on a sight-seeing trip over the city.
The ship, they said, was in the air only a short time when it burst into flames.

STATE PENSION BILL IS HEADED FOR REJECTION

Federal Official Is Doubtful Of Its Qualification

BULLETIN
Springfield, Ill., June 12.—(P)—The House tonight passed by a vote of 88 to 20 the Rhodes bill making the firemen's and policemen's minimum wage laws inoperative unless cities approve a special tax to pay the increased salaries.
Earlier the House had refused to approve a bill that would have repealed outright the 1937 act setting basic pay for firemen and policemen in 55 downstate cities.

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—(P)—H. L. McCarthy, regional director of the Federal Social Security Board, said tonight there was "a grave question" whether the board would approve the $30 minimum monthly old age pension bill passed last week by the house and now pending in the state senate. After a conference with Lieut. Gov. John Stille, the federal official said in a statement:
"Such an act probably would double the total costs of old age assistance in Illinois. If federal funds were withdrawn it would result in an increase in state expenditures for old age assistance from $24,000,000 to more than $50,000,000, and at the same time the amount available to individual recipients would be cut at least in half."
McCarthy said the board would not continue to allot federal funds in Illinois.
The statement on the McCarthy-Stille conference added that the federal official expressed relief another bill—to raise maximum pensions from $30 to $40 monthly—probably would be acceptable to the Social Security Board.
"This bill, too, has passed the house and now is before the senate judiciary committee. It was introduced by the Republican-controlled house welfare committee, which also sponsored the $30 monthly minimum proposal.
Finance officials have estimated that the bill placing a $40 top on pensions would raise present old age assistance awards an average of $2 a month per pensioner.

'40 Wheat Acreage Will Be Increased

Washington, June 12.—(P)—The agriculture department announced today the appointment to states of the 1940 national wheat acreage allotment of 62,000,000 acres established under the 1938 farm act.
Seven mid-western and southwestern wheat-growing states received an aggregate allotment of 41,000,000 acres or about two-thirds of the national total.
These states and their allotment in order of size were Kansas, 12,708,001 acres; North Dakota, 8,964,389; Oklahoma, 4,515,610; Texas, 4,221,706; Montana, 3,763,007; Nebraska, 3,560,400; and South Dakota, 3,245,869.
The department said the 7,000-acre increase in the 1940 national allotment over the 55,000,000 acres allotted for 1939 was reflected in larger state allotments.

Bandit Shot Fatal To Benton Grocer

Benton, Ill., June 12.—(P)—A bullet wound in the neck inflicted by one of two youthful bandits who attempted to rob his grocery store Saturday proved fatal tonight to Frank M. Hatchett, 48.
Hatchett told officers the two hold-up men, both masked, entered late Saturday and said "This is a stick-up." Hatchett threw a chair at them, and one fired two shots.
Mayor C. E. Hair of Benton posted a $50 reward for the capture of the holdup pair.

ACLU RALLY IS UNMOLESTED IN 'HAGUE'S CITY'

Decision Of Supreme Court Tried Out; Thomas Boosed

Jersey City, N. J., June 12.—(P)—American Civil Liberties Union speakers, guarded by members of the police department which in the past had ejected the colleagues from Journal Square hall tonight, on the same side the recent United States supreme court decision denying Mayor Frank Hague the power to prevent public assembly.
Only one incident marred an otherwise orderly meeting, attended by a crowd which Arthur Garfield Hays, lawyer and counsel to the ACLU, estimated was between 10,000 and 15,000.
Hoots and jeers
At the conclusion of the rally, Socialist leader Norman Thomas was followed across the square by a large crowd, composed largely of youths, who hooted and jeered as he made his way to the Hudson tubes accompanied by Miss Dorothy Dunbar Bromley, New York newspaper columnist and ACLU director.
Thomas, ejected from Journal Square a year ago when he attempted to make a speech, cried "Three cheers for Jersey City back in America," when he began his talk over a public address system tonight.
The supreme court ruled that an inclusive Jersey City ordinance requiring police permits for public meetings violated the constitutional rights of freedom of speech and assembly.
Under this and collateral ordinances, speakers for the Civil Liberties Union, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and other groups had been ejected and barred from speaking, distributing handbills, and similar activities.

Inquest Today Into Death Of R. R. Official

Richmond, Va., June 12.—(P)—A coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow in an effort to determine how James Wiley King, 49, vice president of the American Association of Railroad, came to his death today beside the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad tracks 32 miles north of Richmond.
King, former superintendent of transportation for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, was found dead between the north and south tracks, his skull fractured.
Dr. C. C. Chevington, Caroline county coroner, said he had summoned some of King's business associates and section hands who discovered the body, to appear at the inquest.
The C. & O. offices here said King left Washington at 9:05 A. M. today aboard a train for Richmond after advising his wife by telephone he was enroute. Friends said King was coming to Richmond to make arrangements for establishing his family in Washington, where he had offices since January.
Coroner Chevington declined to express an opinion as to whether King fell from the train. He added that the rail executive's death unquestionably was instantaneous.
Funeral services will be held in Richmond Wednesday.

Hull Warns Italy, Germany on Trade

Washington, June 12.—(P)—Secretary Hull, on the fifth anniversary of his trade-agreements program, invited Germany and Italy in effect today to line up with him and warned them their closed economies were leading them to destruction.
In a formal statement issued five years from the day the trade agreements act was approved by President Roosevelt and became law, Hull, white-haired advocate of lower tariffs, declared:
"If two larger nations enter into a discriminatory arrangement between themselves, with an agreement to divide their spheres of influence, fanatical ineptly will take defensive economic measures and, instead of establishing peace and economic rehabilitation and progress, the result is bound to be a general collapse."

Great Britain's Ambassador To China Is Object Of Plot

Discovery Of "Grave" Plan Results In Guard For Sir Archibald John Kerr Clark Kerr as Friction Increases

Shanghai, June 12.—(P)—A heavy police guard was placed about the home of the British ambassador to China tonight after discovery of a plot against his life.
Precautions to protect the ambassador, Sir Archibald John Kerr Clark Kerr, were taken amid increasing British-Japanese friction at Tientsin and Japanese preoccupation with a poisoned wine conspiracy in which two Japanese officials died at Nanjing.
Nationality of persons concerned in the threats against Sir Archibald was not disclosed by British authorities, and conflicting unofficial reports attributed them respectively to Chinese and Japanese.
A British authority said information of the plot was considered "authentic and accurate" and was "of a grave nature." Machine-guns were said to have been placed at corners of the wall surrounding Sir Archibald's residence, in the western section of the International Settlement near the Japanese-controlled area.
Offices of the British embassy in downtown Shanghai also were under guard and the ambassador was provided with a bulletproof automobile. Sir Archibald was appointed ambassador Dec. 20, 1937, to replace Sir Hugh Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, who was wounded when Japanese machine-guns hit his automobile Aug. 26, 1937.

Although one unofficial view alleged that Japanese had inspired the plot against Sir Archibald, another placed the blame on Chinese who feared he would yield to Japanese demands and order British concession authorities at Tientsin to surrender four Chinese accused of terrorism.
Tientsin Incident
Advices through Japanese channels indicated that the chance for an early amicable settlement of the Tientsin incident were fading.
In the poison conspiracy at Nanjing Japanese announced the disappearance of two Chinese cooks who had worked at the Japanese consulate for five years. The Japanese accused them of poisoning wine served at a consulate dinner Saturday night.
Two Japanese members of the Japanese consulate-general staff died of the poisoning today. Eighteen others were seriously ill.

BILL EXPANDING U. S. AIR FORCE GETS APPROVAL

Measure Is Started On Its Way By The Committee

Washington, June 12.—(P)—Over Republican protests, the House appropriations committee started through Congress today the last major part of the administration's defense program—a $292,695,547 war department bill, mostly for air corps expansion.
The measure would appropriate $120,000,000 for new aircraft to boost the army's winged forces to about 5,500 planes, $61,600,000 for facilities to accommodate the new craft and personnel, $14,250,000 for "educational" war supply orders and $27,000,000 for increasing Panama Canal defenses.
The huge bill represented the first attempt in recent history to supplement a regular, annual war department supply bill which Congress already had approved. President Roosevelt recently signed the 1940 war department measure carrying more than $508,000,000.
2,290 New Planes
Included in the supplemental bill was an appropriation calling for 2,290 new army planes and 177 more for the national guard. These, with 565 approved in the regular department bill, would provide a total of 3,032 new planes by the end of 1941.
President Roosevelt told Congress in his national defense message January 12 that it should provide for a minimum increase of 3,000 planes.
It was on this point that Republicans in the committee concentrated their fire just before the bill was approved today. It was learned that the minority members voted solidly for a motion to cut the number of planes from the total of 2,290 to 1,007.

CIGARETTE TAX SUIT FILED BY ST. LOUISAN

St. Louis, June 12.—(P)—Suits to enforce enforcement of the city's new 2-cent-a-pack cigarette tax was filed today by Victor F. Ploch, drugstore proprietor, who listed 20 reasons why he believed the taxing ordinance void.
The measure was approved last week as a means of raising an estimated $800,000 for the city's share of WPA project costs. It was scheduled to take effect July 1, when tax stamps become available.
TROPICAL STORM
Jacksonville, Fla., June 12.—(P)—The weather bureau reported tonight a tropical disturbance of "slight intensity," the first of the season, was developing a short distance off the northeast Yucatan peninsula.

Glides Across Lake Michigan

Frankfort, Mich., June 12.—(P)—Ted Bellak, adventurous young Newark, N. J., pilot, hopped across Lake Michigan tonight in his gull-like glider to a safe landing on this east shore in a smooth, untroubled flight of 54 miles.
Flying in the interests of science, the 27-year-old airman completed the crossing in one hour and two minutes, landing his "Dove of Peace" motorless craft at 6:14 p. m. (CST) after arriving over the city 12 minutes earlier.
The flight, first in a glider over Lake Michigan and through puzzling lake currents, began over Sturgeon Bay, Wis., with Bellak's sailplane towed to an altitude of 16,500 feet by an airplane.
Cutting loose at last night, Bellak sailed on the currents, and on the lake. On the way, he said, after landing here, he used a trifle oxygen, but encountered "no trouble." He completed the trip over the water at a point 20 miles south of here and at an 8,000-foot altitude.
After spiraling over the air-port he brought the German-built "Dove of Peace" down gently and unloaded 500 "air-mail" letters carried from Sturgeon Bay.
Fishermen, coast guardsmen and carrieries had kept watch in the twilight to render prompt aid if Bellak had been forced down in the water.
Bellak's flight was sponsored by the Frankfort Glider Club, the Soaring Society of America and the Blue Hill Observatory of Harvard University to aid in a study of Lake Michigan's complex air currents, long a puzzle to navigators and fliers.
Further this night, Bellak carried mail parcels, and on the way, he said, after landing here, he used a trifle oxygen, but encountered "no trouble." He completed the trip over the water at a point 20 miles south of here and at an 8,000-foot altitude.

Frightened Burglar Saves Five Persons

Chicago, June 12.—(P)—This anonymous warning was telephoned to the police early today:
"Send an inhalator squad to 2900 N. New England avenue right away. A family is dying from gas."
Detectives and a fire department rescue team sped to the home of John Seider of that address. Seider, his wife and three children, sleepy but unharmed, were awakened. Five open gas jets on the kitchen range were turned off. Examination disclosed a window had been jimmied and $6 had been taken from Seider's trousers.
Sergeant Edward McBride theorized a burglar had turned on the gas and, suddenly overcome with terror, notified the police.

ART TREASURE IS TAKEN FROM PARIS MUSEUM

"Miniature" Watteau Painting Missing From Louvre

Paris, June 12.—(P)—A world-wide alarm was issued today in search for the almost pocket-sized painting of a debonair youth mysteriously pulled from an honor place in the Louvre museum Sunday.
The picture, Antoine Watteau's "L'Indifferent," was described by Louvre experts as one of the finest although one of the tiniest works by the early 18th century masters.
The daring daylight robbery was committed in the filled museum and remained a mystery tonight despite 24 hours of secret search by France's art detectives.
The Guard's Story
The guard patrolling the wing where the painting hung with hundreds of others told police at least 50 persons were in that part of the gallery at the time. He said an unusual number of people asked him for details about paintings on the opposite side of the gallery.
L'Indifferent, a ten by eight inch portrait of a young man in the elegant cape, cocked hat, lace-edged jacket, tight-fitting pants and silk stockings of a 17th century dandy, was valued by art authorities at from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 francs ($79,500 to $104,000).
Another sensational robbery of the Louvre occurred Aug. 21, 1911, when Leonard da Vinci's Mona Lisa was stolen. It was recovered in December, 1913, in Florence, Italy.

British Rulers Leaving Canada Next Thursday

Riviere Du Loup, Quebec, June 12.—(P)—Canadians in the "Eastern townships" of Quebec province and along the south shore of the St. Lawrence river cheered King George and Queen Elizabeth upon their return to the dominion after the tumultuous acclaim given the royal couple in the United States on their 4-day visit below the border.
Cyclonic storms with rain and hail last night had ripped to shreds the decorations at many stops but people were on hand at stations from the International border to the string of towns along the bluffs of the St. Lawrence. The storm hit the royal train during the night, but the king and queen slept undisturbed through the Hudson Valley and the Adirondacks.
All the 1,099 miles the visitors traveled by train in the United States this morning under the British flag. For the next three days the royal train will arch around the International border into the maritime provinces before the final leave-taking at Halifax on Thursday.

Cities in Illinois Seek Airline Stops

Washington, June 12.—(P)—Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota cities vied today in placing before the civil aeronautics authority data to support their claims they should be made stops on new air transport lines from Minneapolis-St. Paul to Des Moines, St. Louis and Kansas City.
Five members of the house urged that the route be established and cities in their districts be designated as stops.
Applications to establish the service have been filed by the Mid-Continent, Braniff Airways and the Northwest Lines. The day was given over by examiner Francis W. Brown to hearing representatives of the cities, and tomorrow Des Moines and St. Louis will present their testimony in support of the applications.
Claims were advanced for stops by Rochester, Minn., Iowa City, Ottumwa, Mason City, Waterloo, Ia., and Moline and Quincy, Ill.

FIRST GESTURE ON REVISION OF TAX ANNOUNCED

Undistributed Profits Tax Is Object Of Group Study

Washington, June 12.—(P)—The first formal move to wipe out the remnants of the undistributed profits tax was taken today when the House tax committee voted to submit for it a flat 18 per cent levy on corporations with net income of more than $25,000.
Working rapidly at its first closed session on general tax revisions, the tax group—a ways and means subcommittee—agreed tentatively on that alteration and also to continue present tax rates on "little business" corporations making $25,000 or less.
Other tentative proposals, which received tentative tax committee approval, would:
(1) Permit corporations to carry over their net operating business losses for two years, replacing law prohibiting any carryover.
(2) Repeal the present limitation of $2,000 on deductions for capital losses and substitute the following provisions:
(A) Long-term capital losses—those sustained on assets held more than 18 months—could be applied in full against ordinary income for the same taxable year.
(B) Short-term capital losses—those on assets held less than 18 months—could be applied only to short term capital gains, but if a short term capital loss exceeded the short term gain then the loss could be applied to a short term gain in the next year.
(3) Permit corporations to increase the value of their capital stock, for taxing purposes, in 1939 and 1940, but not to decrease it. After 1940, the present law would continue to apply. That is, corporations would be permitted to revalue their stock upward or downward, every three years, for capital stock and excess profits taxation purposes.
(4) Continue for two years more the present excise or "nuisance" taxes and 3 cent first class postage rate, which together yield between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000.

Reports State Crop Prospects Are Good

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—(P)—A. J. Surratt, crop expert for the Illinois and Federal Departments of agriculture, today took an optimistic view of prospects for all state farm crops this season except oats.
On the basis of reports received from points throughout the state on conditions as of June 1, Surratt predicted "average or better development" for most crops.
Surratt estimated the winter wheat yield this year at 34,416,000 bushels compared with 41,995,000 bushels a year ago and a 1928-1937 average of 33,007,000 bushels.
Oats condition was reported at 74 per cent June 1 as compared with 85 per cent a year ago. Corn stood at 87 per cent, spring wheat 84, and pears 69. Except oats, the percentages represented development well above the ten year averages.

ARMY AIRMEN TELL OF "DOUBLE CRASH"

Bellefonte, Ill., June 12.—(P)—Lieut. George M. McNeese and Paul C. Droz of Barksdale Field, La., took off for home today after telling an Army Board of Inquiry a powerful upward gust of wind whipped their planes out of control just before they crashed in a torrent of rain south of here Saturday.
The pilots, reserve officers on active duty, both graduates of Kelly Field, Tex., said they had narrow escapes from death in falling out of the planes with parachutes.
McNeese said as he jumped he saw Droz' army pursuit ship crash and burst into flames, and said the other pilot's parachute opened just before he reached the ground.
They returned to their home port in a two-place plane flown here for them.

Town in Washington Is Battling Typhoid

Sequim, Wash., June 12.—(P)—Mass inoculations of several hundred persons were made today by physicians battling a typhoid epidemic, which already has stricken 80 persons.
Dr. L. E. Powers, county health officer, said the contagion was traced to the handling of food in a school lunchroom by a "typhoid carrier." All other persons except one teacher were inoculated. There have been no fatalities.

The Safety Attitude

Advocating safety education as "a very definite part of the curriculum" in Illinois schools, State Superintendent John A. Wieland, in a pamphlet issued by his office, termed the steady increase of deaths and accidents as appalling.

The passage of safety laws, their enforcement and the products of safety engineers' constant planning will be of little avail without proper attitude development, the state superintendent said. "The problem of safety in this machine age is one that should concern every citizen."

Wieland said until quite recently very little safety education, as such, has been a part of school courses. Studies made by divisions of the superintendent's office show that all phases of safety should be included in the elementary and secondary school program, rather than courses limited to traffic safety.

"Safety is not accomplished by an intensive few days' work, but is a matter of habit and attitude formation which must extend through the years," Mr. Wieland declared. "Children should be taught to discriminate between careless disregard for one's life and limb, and deeds of real adventure. There are many activities that bring pleasure, without risking one's life."

Mr. Wieland no doubt put his finger on the cause of the great majority of accidents—a careless, indifferent attitude on the part of many persons. Perhaps if the attitude of all children toward safety could be improved, Illinois would take an important stride in guaranteeing the future safety of its highways and homes.

Stars That Have Faded

The fabulous salaries paid movie stars are always publicized. Seldom mentioned is the fact that many a huge wage earner of yesterday is bankrupt today or will be tomorrow and that the problem of old age, illness, and unemployment are as bad in Hollywood as elsewhere.

Several years ago the Motion Picture Relief Fund, which is now giving aid to hundreds of out-of-luck movie people, was founded to do something about the situation. Last January this philanthropic work was given new impetus when the Screen Guild started a series of Sunday night broadcasts over a network. To the half hour of dramatic entertainment movie actors, writers and technicians contributed their talent free, while the sponsors of the show paid $10,000 weekly into the fund in lieu of salaries.

Last Sunday, when the Screen Guild's broadcasts ended the season, the charitable venture had poured $220,000 into the quota originally planned. With it, and more money to be raised, a permanent home for indigent and aged movie people will be erected in San Fernando Valley, near Hollywood. Its upkeep will be further assured, as next season's 39 week series of broadcasts is expected to net an additional $390,000.

SMALL TALK

Good morning. Well, the final commencement on the books for this year was successfully negotiated yesterday, despite the fact that unfavorable weather forced a last minute change in the location of the exercises. It has been many years since the Illinois College graduates have been indoors to receive the diplomas. The graduation programs are traditionally held in the college grove. The ladies and gentlemen in charge of yesterday's affair were fighting to the last ditch to hold to tradition, but the rain that began peeping down about 9:30—just as the outdoor platform had been completed as to decorations—made it necessary to switch the event to the Westminster church, where the baccalaureate had been held the day before. Evidently the seniors, having gone through one portion of the popular old phrase during three years at school, were unable to go through high water for their sheepskins. Incidentally, noticed that the anthem at commencement was a Finnish student's song. Very appropriate for Finnish students, don't you think?... Or doncha?

Expect the management of the swimming pool has very definite ideas regarding the chilly weather of the past few days. Someone, in speaking of Saturday afternoon's wind and rain storm, referred to it as "the uncertain weather of this afternoon." Hmmmm. Seems they slipped up a bit in their reference. That was one of the certainest, one of the most positive hunkers of weather we ever saw. Nothing hang-backish about that, no sir! There was no question as to its actions, no doubt as to its intentions. One didn't picture that tornado as edging sniply up to the city limits, tucker in mouth.

Tickets for Hines Banquet June 17th, may be secured by the public. Phone 279.

wondering if the good people of Jacksonville would mind if it tripped around amongst them for a few minutes. Hardly. The tornado happened to be lurking about in the shadow of the overhanging clouds, its grinning mouth dripping gore and its eyes flashing wickedness. Suddenly it spied us. "Aha!", we can hear it shout. "There's Jacksonville, the place where they haven't had an honest to goodness tornado in five years and no unusual weather for five minutes! Yippee-e-ll!" Then, grasping its strongest club in one hand and its favorite cat-o-nine-tails in the other, it zoomed into town for a half-hour's gleeful plundering—very, very CERTAINLY!

Did you hear the broadcast of Sunday's play-off in the national open golf tournament? Craig Wood and Byron Nelson finally had a necessary tie-a-plaff today (Monday) the result of which we do not as yet know. There were several interesting points about that broadcast. In the first place, there were places—almost the most exciting places—when the announcer could talk no louder than a whisper. It seemed strange to hear an American sports announcer speaking in a strained whisper at the most crucial points, but of course a golfer couldn't be bothered, when making a crucial putt, with a rasping voice yelling, "Now he's going to putt, ladies and gentlemen! And there he goes!" No, that would never do. So the announcer whispers, and it seems to add to the excitement of the occasion.

Of course, the see-saw duel between Nelson and Wood was the big excitement of the afternoon, with the crazy finish that resulted in a tie. By crazy finish, we mean Wood's shot (and it was a wood shot), that struck a spectator on the noggin and headed back onto the fairway after being on the road for all points in a very wrong direction. If Wood wins the title, he should divide the prize money with the poor spectator. It knocked the fellow cold and gave him a nasty cut.

Well, all ready to settle down to the long summer's grind. Not that it is an unpleasant grind, it's a lot of fun. But the end of the school year is a very definite break in the scheme of things for the newspaper. Figure it out. A half dozen schools make quite a difference in the news. But there always seems to be something coming up. Maybe a little swimming, and golf and tennis waste the first thing you know. Hope so. See you tomorrow.

Danville Awarded Next Beta Sigma Phi District Meet

Convention Closes Here Sunday With Additional Social Events

Social events were a feature of the fifth annual convention of Beta Sigma Phi sorority Sunday, beginning at 9 a.m. with a "Happiness Breakfast" in the Dunlap hotel dining room. The appointments were in blue, with blue cornflowers and baby's breath being used as the floral decorations. The convention chairman, Miss Irene Slater, presided over the following program: silent prayer; Medley of Blue, Helen Seymour, group singing led by Helen Brown Read. Wooden pins with the Beta Sigma crest were given as souvenirs.

The "Preceptor Luncheon" was held at 1:30 o'clock with the opening ritual. Vocal selections were given by Helen Seymour, "Thru the Years" and "In My Garden," accompanied by Lele Hutchinson. The decorations were yellow roses and white baby's breath. The favors were lovely sport bracelets.

The sorority sponsors a trip for one of its members each year. The drawings for the "Hawaii Raffle" was won by Anna K. von Allmen of Olney, Ill. Degrees Awarded To 47 Illinois College Pupils In Services At Church

"Books are the source and the basis for all education. They stand for the continuity of life," Chancellor George R. Throop of Washington University told the members of the Illinois College graduating class Monday morning. Chancellor Throop delivered the commencement address for the 47 seniors, speaking on the subject, "Education of Books."

The commencement exercises were held in the Westminster church, threatening weather preventing the use of the beautifully decorated college grove. The large crowd of students, parents, and friends of the graduates filled the church auditorium and adjacent rooms to capacity.

At ten o'clock, the procession of seniors entered the auditorium, led by the junior marshals, Rufus Browning and George Rogers. The processional music was played by the Illinois College band under the direction of Elbert Edelbrock. Following the members of the present graduating class were the members of the class of 1889, the board of trustees, the faculty, and the president with the guests of honor.

Reverend M. L. Pontius of the Central Christian church asked the invocation. The college men's octet sang the anthem, "Fight for Thine Own," a Finnish student song. Chancellor Throop was introduced by President Hudson.

Evaluates Books
In his address, Chancellor Throop centered his remarks about the psychological value of books. He stated that it is from books that one may obtain regard for learning and an interest in information.

"Books are the most enduring monuments of mankind. It is through them that civilization becomes cumulative," Chancellor Throop continued to state that everything civilization has gained, all progress that has been achieved, has depended for the most part upon the capacity of men to understand books. He reminded his audience that, through the medium of books, the words of the great poets and philosophers are brought back—words which still carry weight in this sophisticated world.

The Chancellor quoted the statement of Addison to the effect that "Books are legacies which great leaders leave to mankind." He then cited quotations from a number of the greatest writers and thinkers in history to illustrate the immortality of thought through the ages, made possible by books.

"We look for a social goal," said Dr. Throop, "when we must first secure an intellectual and moral footing." He went on to say that the present low standards of morals and ethics can be raised only by bettering one's citizenship and enhancing one's culture through the intelligent use of fine books. Books, more than classroom work, are influential in building character.

Chancellor Throop closed by emphasizing the point that books form a common basis for profession and avocation. They must be studied and heeded in the further development of a Christian civilization.

Following Dr. Throop's address, the women's chorus of Illinois College, directed by Mrs. Helen Brown Read, sang Del's "Come Down to Kew."

Report Good Year At I. C.; President Asks For Changes To Plant

Reporting that Illinois College finished the year with a small balance in the treasury, President H. Gary Hudson in his annual report to the alumni delivered at commencement exercises in Westminster church Monday morning urged that steps be taken to improve the physical condition of the college plant, and announced the receipt of several gifts.

The president's report included the following: "Commencement again marks the end of another year of our history. This, the one hundred and tenth year of Illinois College, has been a good year. Proud of our long tradition as a Christian college of liberal arts, we re-affirm our faith in the principles of our founders and of the long succession of devoted men and women whose labors have made Illinois College what it is. We believe in the American spirit of independence and self reliance in an age when regimentation seems to be the accepted course, and in steady consistent progress which comes from honest thinking and which mistrusts the panaceas and plausible short-cuts of these days whether in finance or in education. We believe in the ideal of education whose purpose is the making of a life rather than merely the making of a living.

"For wisdom of counsel, for unselfish labor and generous gifts, we are unhesitatingly indebted to the Board of Trustees. Their ranks have been broken this year by the deaths of Mr. John A. Barber and Mr. Edward F. Coltrane.

"We have suffered the loss also this year of two former members of the Board. Mr. Robert Lanphier served from 1914 to 1937, twenty-three years, and Mr. John A. Ayers, of the Class of 1886, served for twenty-six years, from 1901 to 1927.

"As loyal friends of the College have laid down their duties and passed on among us, others have arisen to give us aid. I am happy to announce that Mr. Harry N. Kirby, '37, and Mr. W. Brown Burr, '00, have accepted election to the Board of Trustees. Mr. Kirby, whose residence is Newtown, Connecticut, has already given distinguished service to the College as Chairman of the Alumni Fund Association.

"It gives me pleasure to announce also the election of Hugh P. Green, '06, of Jacksonville as the new alumni trustee. He will replace Dr. Melville T. Kennedy, '04.

"I wish to express the appreciation of the College for help that we have received from two men who accepted temporary appointments. Mr. Joseph A. Roy, Jr., who has taught a course in advanced accounting, and Mr. Robert W. Riegel, B.S., University of Illinois, who was basketball coach during the past season.

Miss Jenks Resigns

"Miss Jessie P. Jenks, Librarian of Illinois College since 1928, has resigned to accept a position in the Illinois State Library at Springfield. Her successor here will be Miss Margaret Blakely, now librarian at Lewis Institute in Chicago, who graduated from Grinnell College and received professional training at the Universities of Wisconsin and Chicago.

"Mr. Howard O. Brogan who has for two years acceptably filled an interim position in the Department of English, is leaving us to continue graduate study, an assistant professorship at the University of Chicago.

"We have appointed Dr. Charles F. Frank, '18, a graduate of Haverford College with the degree of Ph.D. from Princeton, Miss Elizabeth Hastings who graduated from Pembroke College of Brown University and is a Ph.D. of Yale University will join the faculty as instructor in English.

"Mr. Ray E. Smith for two years since he graduated here has served capably as instructor in Physical Education, track coach, and coach of freshman football and basketball. He leaves us to take another position. Mr. LaRue Van Meter who has been absent on leave this year has resigned his position. To his place we have appointed Mr. Claude N. Beasley who holds the bachelor's and master's degrees from Springfield College at Springfield, Massachusetts. Mr. Beasley will be professor of Physical Education and Director of Athletics. Mr. Alfred Lamb who has most ably served as Acting Director of Athletics during Mr. Van Meter's absence will continue to be coach of football, swimming and baseball and instructor in Physical Education.

Report of Library

"In my annual report last year, I referred to the importance of the library for the vigorous intellectual life of the College. Those serious problems which I noted then still remain.

"There is an improvement, however, in the proportion of books drawn for more than brief consultation or overnight use, but it is still too small for a student body the size of ours.

"Accessions to the library have been 993 volumes, 53 more than last year.

Student Activities

"Our athletic teams have acquitted themselves well. For the fifth consecutive year the "pool-less wonders" of Illinois College have won the Conference championship in swimming. The baseball team has completed a second consecutive year undefeated in the Conference. The other teams have finished their seasons in positions near the top and all the players have maintained our high traditions of sportsmanship.

"The Men's Glee Club under the direction of Professor J. C. Clelland and the Women's Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Helen Brown Read have given notably fine performances on many occasions. The Band, directed by Albert Edelbrock, '40, contributed to the enthusiasm of football and basketball games and demonstrated in its spring concert a high degree of musical excellence. The dramatic club, now calling themselves "The Hilltop Players," maintained the best traditions of the college stage. Our debaters have given a good account of themselves and the editorial staff of the Rambler has continued to issue one of the best college papers in the country.

"Last year the International Relations Club initiated the High School Conference on International Relations. The second annual conference met this year, bringing to the campus 56 delegates from ten high schools of this vicinity.

"The religious life of the campus has been greatly improved this year by the excellent chapel programs planned by Dr. F. B. Oxtoby, Chairman of the faculty committee on chapel.

Announces Several Gifts

"In the course of this year I have again had the privilege and the pleasure of discussing with groups of alumni the ideals, the purposes and the needs of the College. I met with ten societies from Boston and New York to St. Louis. Their unflinching loyalty and interest in our problems were most helpful and encouraging. I wish to express particularly my appreciation of the services of Mr. H. Clay Tate, '37, as president of the Alumni Association.

"As always we are indebted to the Alumni Fund Association for its generous support. It has turned over to the Trustees during the year 1938, $3,183.25 for the current needs of the College and $2,016 for endowment, a total of $5,199.25. There has been a substantial increase in the number of memberships in the Fund and in the amount of pledges.

"We record with gratitude the many generous gifts which have come from the alumni and friends of Illinois College this year.

"The Library has received from Mr. Harry F. Scott, '98, Professor Edward Cappe, '87, Mr. Harry B. Johnston, the son of Professor Johnston, Mr. Willis F. Scott, and Scott, Foreman Company the sum of $275 to be added to the Harold W. Johnston Library Memorial Fund created for the purchase of books for the Department of Classics. Mr. Frederick C. Tanner, '98, has given $100 for books and periodicals for the Browning Room. Mr. James A. Meeks, '89, has given the Library a large number of valuable books on historical and related subjects. Other gifts of books have been received from Dr. Clarence E. Carter, '05, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. J. F. Langton, the library of Professor E. F. Bullard, the Illinois State Historical Society, the Abraham Lincoln Association, members of the faculty and other friends.

"The generous gift of Dr. George E. Baxter, '96, provided for the redecoration and furnishing of Baxter Hall Lounge, making this room even more attractive than before as the social center of the campus. The liberal gifts of Mr. Frank R. Elliott, '99, and Mr. William S. Elliott, '00, permitted the remodeling of a wing of Elliott House into an additional suite of rooms, thus making possible other changes which have enhanced the convenience and beauty of the house and its grounds. An anonymous friend of the College gave the sum of $200 to be expended for furnishings for the women's houses.

Everett Dean Martin Secured

"Illinois College has been remembered in the will of two loyal alumni. Mr. Albert C. Rice, '74, and Dr. Edward Bowe, '98, who left generous bequests to the College.

"We gratefully acknowledge a special appropriation of $500 from the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church for the work of the College. Many alumni and friends have contributed most generously to the current operating expenses and have helped us to meet unexpected emergencies which strained our resources. A most welcome gift was a substantial fund placed in the hands of the president by an anonymous donor to be expended at his discretion for purposes not covered by the college budget. This has enabled me to assist most gratifyingly and especially to promote the cultural life of the College by bringing here men and women who might give the students new outlooks and interests. This fund has enabled me to engage Dr. Everett Dean Martin, '04, Department of Philosophy of the Claremont Colleges, who will spend three weeks with us during the second semester of next year, lecturing to the student body on contemporary problems in relation to the cultural and spiritual values of western civilization. He is serving as "Participative Professor" under the auspices of the Association of American Colleges.

Asks for Improvements

"It is true that buildings no more make a college than clothes make the man. But a man is judged to some extent by the clothes that he wears and colleges are judged by their physical plant. The Dean's report calls attention to the deplorable condition of Crampton Hall.

"The facilities for physical education are also greatly in need of improvement. The development of health and physical vigor in the student body and the cultivation of a taste for outdoor games is as essential a part of a liberal education as the development of the students in other capacities. Intercollegiate contests are only incidental to the accomplishment of this purpose. A year ago I referred to the long-felt need for new gymnasium. The students, enthusiastic for some positive action, have set about obtaining pledges among themselves for this purpose. While neighboring colleges have gone ahead, we have been standing still, and I understand that many of our colleagues are unwilling to play on our field because it is, in comparison with theirs, rough, poorly drained and often hard. The use of the same field for football and baseball requires the skimming of the field for good sod for football. The track has been dragged until it is worn out. Russell Field is available if improved and part could be developed as a baseball diamond with a moderate amount of grading. More tennis courts with good surfaces are also urgently needed.

"Our physical plant is undoubtedly a handicap in attracting a satisfactory class of students and its improvement would certainly enable us to increase the effectiveness of our whole educational program. Something is already being done. The Sigma Pi and Phi Alpha Literary Societies are engaged in an active campaign to raise funds for the repair and renovation of Old Beecher. "The closing of the Avers National Bank on November 20, 1932 involved for Illinois College a net loss of $142,914. I am very much gratified to be able to state that additions to the endowment since that date have practically replaced this amount. In fact, a comparison between the amount of endowment of the College in May, 1932, and the present time shows that all but approximately $2300 has been made up.

"I stated a year ago that we would live within our income and I am happy to say that this year we continue an unbroken record now covering many years. The College ends this year, as earlier years, with books balanced and a small surplus."

So small is the body of the hummingbird that, when stripped of feathers, it is no larger than that of a bumblebee.

Rev. Fred Hoskins Is Baccalaureate Speaker at College

Points Out That Christ Is Leader to Follow in Future Life

Reverend Fred Hoskins, pastor of the United church of Bridgeport, Connecticut, addressed the members of the senior class of Illinois College and a large audience of parents and friends in the annual baccalaureate service Sunday morning. The services were held in the Westminster Presbyterian church, the graduates marching from the college campus to the church entrance.

The invocation was offered by Rev. W. H. Pankhurst, of the Congregational church. President H. Gary Hudson of the college read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. Glen Schillerstrom of the State street Presbyterian church offered the prayer. The anthem, "Mariners' Hymn," was sung by the Illinois College octet.

Rev. Hoskins chose for his subject, "Needed, a Leader." He stressed the point that the true realist concentrates neither upon the favorable nor the unfavorable aspects of present day civilization, but sees both sides and guides himself accordingly. He stated that in the world of today, college graduates as well as men and women farther along in life are faced with the necessity of choosing a leader whom they can trust, one who has proved himself to be strong and worthy. Rev. Hoskins then said that such a leader can be found in Jesus Christ, that the faith in Him and the influence He exerts upon our existence is one of the most real factors in human life. Mr. Hoskins urged the students to allow religion and faith play an all-important part in guiding them throughout their careers.

The benediction was given by Rev. W. C. Meeker of the Westminster church. Henry Ward Pearson played the organ prelude and postlude and accompanied the octet.

Baseball's Centennial Observed; Stars Play An Exhibition Battle

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 12.—(AP)—The first hundred years of baseball's history were observed today in the largest exhibition game ever played, as the National League and American League stars played a doubleheader at the Centennial baseball field.

There were parades, dedications, speeches, a Babe Ruth "comeback" game, and what for more than 10,000 people who flocked to this pretty village today.

Commissioner K. M. Landis, high priest of baseball, was there to lead the cheering. He received plenty of lusty rooting assists from a score of men whose names are found in almost every baseball blue book ever published.

Museum Dedicated
The baseball museum and hall of fame with its relics of glorious bygone days, was dedicated, so was the Centennial baseball field.

Doubleheader, played on the actual spot where Doubleday's pioneers first trotted into action one hundred years ago. Eleven living members of the hall of fame renewed feuds and friendships and baseball as it was displayed in 1839, in the 1850's and in 1939—was reeled off by teams of schoolboys, soldiers and picked major leaguers, wearing the uniforms of the periods they represented.

Men who have helped make baseball history—Babe Ruth, Connie Mack, Hank Wagner, Old Nap Lajoie and Walter Johnson, to name just a few—sat on the platform as Landis dedicated the hall of fame "to all America."

It was accepted by Ford C. Frick and William C. Harridge, presidents of the National and American Leagues, and William B. Davis, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, representing the minors. John A. Heydler, former National League president, who conceived the idea of the baseball party, was guest of honor and introduced Commissioner Landis.

Engraved Bats
Ten of the eleven living members of the hall of fame were presented with engraved bats, and a raffle of drums and the sounding of taps answered the calling of the names of the 16 deceased members.

U. S. Cobb, the Old Georgia Peach of the Detroit Tigers, was delayed en route by illness and didn't arrive until after the ceremonies. But the other ten were there from Connie Mack, the 76-year-old dean down to Babe Ruth, the freshman of the lot.

In addition to Mack and Ruth were Honus Wagner, greatest shortstop of them all and still active as coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Tris Speaker, the old "Grey Eagle" of Cleveland; Walter Johnson, the "Big Train" of Washington; Nap Lajoie, a great Cleveland star of the old days; George Sisler, holder of the world's record for safe hits in a single season; Cy Young, who won 511 major league games; Grover Cleveland Alexander, the shut-out artist of this day, and Eddie Collins, former great second sacker for the Athletics and Chicago White Sox.

Sydney Wooderson, Miler, Sees Record For Race Saturday

Holder of World Record To Run in Princeton Invitational Meet

New York, June 12.—(AP)—Sydney Wooderson, the littlest big league trackman in the business, said "Howdy" to the statue of Liberty today and told the boys he figures the four-minute mile is no longer a pipe dream.

He wasn't cocky about it. There's nothing at all cocky about this slim, slight, slighter as he peers at you through spectacles. He looks for all the world like a high-schooler and you'd imagine him to be most anything but the world mile record-holder.

But both 24-year old Sydney and his trainer, Al Hill, are quietly confident that Wooderson will knock off this country's best Saturday in Princeton's invitational meet, and that he is likely as not to eclipse his own world record of 4:06.4.

"If the track is as fast as I've been told," Sydney said, "we'll come in under the record, definitely. A 4:03 mile is possible. I'd like somebody to set a pace of 60 seconds for the first quarter, and 61 for each of the next three."

Ankle Is Well
"Right now," he added, "I feel I'm better than for any time in the last five years. I had two workouts daily on board. My ankle is well again and gives me no trouble. I'm leaving for Princeton at once and will work out daily, beginning today."

That ankle, his left—bothered him in the last Olympics. Afterward, he discovered a bone was splintered. An S. Johnson (Philly) p. 1 0 0 0 0 Shilling (Indians) x. 1 0 1 0 0

Wooderson wouldn't do too much talking about the four-minute mile, but his trainer, a former Olympic runner, is confident. He's the boy to do it. "Why, he hasn't reached his peak yet," Hill said.

Wooderson stands only five-foot-six and insists he weighs 128 pounds. But you got the idea he'd have to be especially soaking wet to tip the beam at that much. He's been running 11 years, for the last six under Hill's guidance.

After Two Playoffs, Nelson Captures 43rd U. S. Open Golf Meet

Philadelphian Wins in Extra Holes

Philadelphia, June 12.—(AP)—Byron Nelson, as durable as a cowboy from his native Texas and as cool as a Tom Collins on a summer day, fired two great iron shots on the third and fourth holes of the Philadelphia Country Club's spring mill course today and thereby won the 43rd national open golf championship.

He had to go to the eighteenth green of his second playoff round with Craig Wood before he could make the victory official with a one-over-par 70 to Wood's 73. But the blond bomber from Mamarene, N. Y., was ready to admit their struggle for the game's most important title was over as early as the fourth hole.

In No. 3, Nelson used his wedge on a downhill lie and lofted a shot that almost rolled into the cup for an eagle 2. On the fourth, over-driven a good 40 yards and 200 yards short of the green, Byron laced into a No. 1 iron and saw the ball light onto the green, 15 feet short of the cup, roll up and nestle against the pin.

Another Eagle
When he and Wood walked onto the green and the pin was lifted out, the ball plopped into the cup for a deuce, Nelson's second eagle of the tournament. Right there the 27-year-old pro from Reading, Pa., who shortly will take over a new job at Inverness in Toledo, had the playoff won. He was four shots in front, and that was too much for Wood ever to make up.

But Wood didn't stop trying. Even on the 17th which he had started four strokes down, he hit a fine approach shot within two feet of the pin and canned the putt for a birdie 3. Even that, though, left him three strokes down with only one to play.

Nelson, down the long 18th where Sam Snead had blown a championship which was his for the asking, was far too steady for any chance of a crack up.

For Wood, it meant he had lost probably his last and best shot at the title. It also meant that the bad luck which had pursued the 37-year-old veteran through four other playoffs still was hanging on. In 1931 he lost a playoff to the late Johnny Golden for the north-south championship at Pinehurst. In 1933 he was beaten by Denny Shute in a playoff for the British open title. In 1934 Paul Runyan beat him out in the

Andy O'Neills Take Rookie Nine, 8 to 5, In Contest Sunday

First of Three Games to Be Played This Summer; Hit Five Doubles

In the first of three contests to be played during the summer between two Jacksonville baseball teams, the Andy O'Neills defeated the Rookies Sunday afternoon at Lake Mauvalsterre, a crowd of nearly 3,000 witnessing the event.

Only Elmer Schneider, of St. Louis, equalled Gar Wood's winning streak, the St. Louis youngster racing two heats of the Midget Class and one heat of the Class A event to ring up three first places. His father, Carl Schneider, is commodore of the Midwest Outboard Association, which sanctioned and conducted the races.

Meyer might have equalled Gar Wood's winnings for the day but was disqualified after winning the first heat of the Class A event because he beat the gun across the starting line. Young Schneider took first in the opening heat as a result of the disqualification, but Meyer came back to win the second heat.

Wood Wins Easily
Wood had little trouble winning his three heats, but went into a tailspin in the first mile of the second heat of the Class A event and provided the crowd with the biggest thrill of the day. His motor appeared to be not functioning well on the get-away, and after rounding the first turn, Wood attempted to reach back and make some adjustments. His first one on two reaches to find the proper gadget was unsuccessful and he turned to see where it was.

National Champions Here
Dick Neal, famous builder of the outboard racing hulls, and President Richardson, St. Louis, were two national champions present for the meeting. But Dick Wehrli who won the crown in Florida this year, was unable to be present. Jay Neubauer, local driver who placed second in Wehrli in Florida, was unable to get his motor to perform up to par, and was last in the Class A event. Neubauer's motor lost a fly-wheel in races at Quincy two weeks ago, and was returned from the factory where repairs were made only a few days before the races. The local driver had enough time to get all of the adjustments made to bring the motor up to its usual performance.

WHEAT DROPS DUE FAVORABLE REPORTS

Chicago, June 12.—(P)—Depressed by increased movement of new wheat in the southwest and improved weather and crop conditions in the northwest, wheat values slumped more than a cent today to the lowest level in three weeks.

July contracts fell to 73½, off as much as 1½.

Selling came from sources in both the winter and spring wheat belts. Enid, Okla., received 575 cars of new grain. Hedging pressure was in evidence and the resulting decline touched off stop-loss liquidation.

Receipts were: wheat 28 cars, corn 172, oats 34.

Wheat closed 11-11½ lower than Saturday, July 73½-1, September 73½-1; corn 1-1½ lower, July 49½-49, September 50½-1; oats 1-1 down.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

THERE ARE THREE GAITS OF BIRDS ON THE GROUND... WALKING, HOPPING AND RUNNING... BUT FEW BIRDS USE ALL THREE.

ANSWER: Eider down comes from the breasts of eider ducks. The birds pluck the down from their own breasts to line their nests. It is a valuable export of northern countries.

NEXT: Is it always cloudy somewhere?

STAMP NEWS

ANNOUNCEMENT of requirements for covers to be carried on the first airmail flight on the "Great Circle," or northern route of the trans-Atlantic airmail system, has been made by the Postoffice Department. The first flight will leave New York June 24 and return from Southampton, England, June 28.

Mails will be received and dispatched at Moncton, New Brunswick, Canada; Botwood, Newfoundland; Dublin, Ireland, and London, England. Covers must bear postage of the country from which they are dispatched.

Westbound covers for Moncton and New York with bank drafts or American Express checks payable to postmaster at Dublin may be sent to Philatelic Section, Dublin Postoffice, Ireland, in time for sailing from New York, June 14. Covers are accepted at 15 pence per half ounce.

No covers and remittances will be accepted at the London office.

For the convenience of collectors, covers may be sent, with appropriate money orders, to Pan American Airways, Philatelic Section, 435 East 42nd Street, New York, which will apply stamps and mail covers, at a small charge to cover handling cost. The total charges per half ounce are:

London or Dublin to Moncton or New York, 45 cents; London or Dublin to Botwood, 50 cents; Botwood to London or Dublin, 45 cents.

Covers for the eastbound flight should be sent to reach Pan American Airways not later than June 14, and westbound covers not later than June 20. Pan American may apply cachets to covers to be posted at Botwood and London.

The New York Postoffice will handle cachets from New York to Dublin and London at 30 cents per ounce; New York to Moncton, 60 cents; and New York to Botwood, 15 cents.

In all cases envelopes should be marked in the upper left corner to show the points between which service is desired. There will be no dispatch between London and Dublin.

AIRMAIL service on the Northern or "Great Circle" route of the trans-Atlantic airmail system will be inaugurated June 24, or as soon thereafter as possible. Postmaster General James A. Farley has announced.

The Northern route extends from New York to Southampton, England, via Shetland, New Brunswick, Botwood, Newfoundland and Foyers, Ireland.

At the same time, the postmaster general revealed that a special cachet will be furnished the postmaster at New York City for application on all covers mailed from New York City, which are to be carried on the first flight over the Northern route. This cachet will depict the Tylon World's Fair and the Tower of the Sun of the San Francisco World's Fair; a Maple Leaf for Canada; the head of a Newfoundland dog for Newfoundland; a Shamrock for Ireland; and the Big Ben clock in London for England.

News dispatches report the installation of a "mailomat" machine in New York. It is a coin-operated letter box which permits the public to mail letters without purchasing stamps. The sender inserts coins for the amount of postage, places letter in slot, and the machine prints meter stamp, postmark, drops letter into box for collection. More than 2000 letters were mailed during the first day of operation.

A total of 72 stamps will be issued by France during 1939. The recently issued Eiffel Tower stamp completed 22 issues of the year's program.

Interesting new issues: Liechtenstein's set of three values showing a symbolic paying of homage to the emperor and a block of four honoring the reigning prince; Latvia's set of eight stamps commemorating the fifth anniversary of the reign of Karlis Ulmanis, prime minister and late minister.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Iris can't cook, Bart said out, so they dine out regularly while Bart's money dwindles. They spend right and left for expensive things. But Bart feels sure he will settle down soon.

CHAPTER IV

IT was Bart himself who brought home the little budget book, a month later. After spending rather a bad hour with his accounts, and figures. After discovering that two could not only not live as cheaply as one, but instead, could not, apparently, live for three times what it cost one! After the cold figures told him that he had spent at the rate of $25 or better a week for food alone, for the two of them!

In the bathroom, a high sweet contralto sang happily. Obviously his little wife was having herself a tub and shower. And on the bed was spread a billowing concoction of pale green organdie flounces, with a deep, leaf green satin sash, and a big floppy milan hat of green straw. On the rug stood two diminutive size AAAA white kid sandals.

They were dining out. They were dining and dancing out. Again.

Bart sat down heavily in the chintz and Chinese grass rush chair by the open window.

Then Iris came out, trailing her pale blue chenille robe about her. Her ivory bangles, bare and glowing, rising above the robe caught together carelessly, her slender legs and thighs peeking in and out as she hurried to find fresh lingerie, stockings, powder and make-up.

"Hurry, Bart, darling," was her slightly absent greeting, when she noticed him sitting there by the window, "we'll be late if you don't. You'll have to get a bath and dress. Or had you forgotten we're dining with the Kents?"

HE had forgotten. Completely. So engrossed had he been in the budget book, so lost in the wild hope of curbing their extravagant mode of living to a scale he could encompass, the money of Ellen and John Kent's invitation to dine with them at the new Bay-shore Plaza, and then go to the new play the Guild was putting on, had completely slipped his mind.

He laid out his shaving kit and turned the hot water on in the tub. Rubbing the shaving lather over his face, he watched Iris in the mirror over the wash-bowl, that reflected squarely the entire wall of the bedroom beyond, where she sat at the vanity mirror.

"We're eating at home tomorrow, honey," Bart said casually, cutting a neat lane through the drift of lather and faint stubble, "I've got a surprise for you."

"Oh Bart, not company!" Iris exclaimed petulantly, "When you know how much I have to do at the office, and all this besides."

Bart grinned silently at the "all this." He did more than half the housework around the little apartment, and thus far, they'd eaten most of their meals out. Still Iris took her home-making seriously.

"No, not company, honey. Just a book. It tells all about budgets and menus and buying and planning meals. So we can begin to save a little."

"It costs almost as much to live at home, Bart, as it does to dine out," Iris argued, "with prices the way they are."

"You don't see any restaurant men going broke do you, Iris? No, and you won't. And this book tells how we can eat like kings on a third of what it's costing us now. Better food, home cooked, and at a third the cost."

Iris said nothing. But the tiny line between her wide violet eyes was warning that she was thinking intently.

ALL that evening, Iris was the life of the party. She flirted with staid John Kent when she came with him, and teased Bart constantly. She kept them all in gales of merriment. She had such a grand time herself it was a shock to discover it was time to go on to the play. And then all at once it was 11, and they were home again, and yawning sleepily to bed.

Next day, Bart managed to shut up shop directly after 5. He pulled the curtains as soon as the whistles blew, and didn't answer knocks on the door as he made everything fast for the night. But Iris was home ahead of him. Iris, clad in a faded pink check gingham gown with a ragged tear in one puffed sleeve and a tea towel pinned bewitchingly about her blond curls. Iris, bending over the stove, hurrying to and fro, studying a cookbook. Cooking dinner.

The bedroom was in order, the living room neat, and the table set. And a pot-roast simmered in the oven in an iron kettle, and vegetables steamed in the rich brown juices. On the window-ledge an apple pie cooled, and she was deep in a bran muffin recipe when he came in.

"Hi, wife of my bosom," he greeted her fervently. She flung him a worried, absent glance and wiped her damp forehead on the ragged sleeve.

"Hello, Bart," Iris answered wanly.

That was the beginning. When the meal was on the table, Iris wasn't hungry. She was too tired to eat. Too hot. There was too much to do.

"Besides, you want to economize, Bart, and you'll save what I might eat."
